FROM KOOTENAI.

Mr. Charles Oppenheimer, from Kootenai, on the 1st of August, arrived yesterday morning with $20,000 in gold dust. Business was brisk and the prospects of the miners most encouraging. As high as $7,000 had been paid for a claim there. About 500 miners are at work on the creek, and all are in high spirits and confident of the vast richness and extent of the diggings. Commissioner O'Reilly had been to Kootenai, tried a few cases, and returned to Big Bend by Dewdney's trail, which is now in good traveling condition. Major Downie and party had arrived at Kootenai and commenced work.

ACCIDENT AT NEW WESTMINSTER.

From passengers who arrived yesterday morning by the Enterprise, we learn that Mr. Thos. McMicking, a highly esteemed resident of that city, was accidentally drowned on Saturday last in the vain attempt to rescue his child from a watery grave. The particulars of this sad calamity so far as we have been able to glean them, are as follows: Mr. McMicking and his family, consisting of his wife and five children, were at a logging camp above [illegible] during the latter part of last week, and while [illegible] the stream. The first and natural impulse of the poor father was to plunge after his boy heedless of the consequences, but being unable to swim, both were drowned by the current beneath a boom that lay in the water near by, and were drowned in sight of Mrs. McMicking and her little ones. The body of the father was subsequently recovered. His distracted, heart-broken widow, received such a shock to her nervous system that she has become, we are pained to learn, temporarily deranged.

MAN SHOT.

Early yesterday morning information was brought to the Police Barracks that a man had been shot at Coalbore Bay, and that he was dying from the effects of the injury. Superintendent Franklin, accompanied by Dr. Davis, Jr., and several private citizens, immediately started, and, lying on the beach, weltering in his blood, found an old man, named

The Daily Oregonian.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE.

TUESDAY MORNING, SEPT. 4, 1866.

"Too Calm" to be Honest.

We have stated heretofore that J. W. Nesmith was "Mr. Lincoln's political enemy." This, his organs here do not, in terms, deny. Some of them accuse us of misstating his record, but do not attempt to show in what particular. J. W. Nesmith has made his own record, and we have done nothing more than recall his own words and acts to public attention. One of his purchased organs in this State substantially admits that he opposed Mr. Lincoln, and says that such terms as "Lincoln's political enemy" might have done very well about two years ago, but just now it is "played out." "Played out!" Yes, certainly, with political Judases, who are willing to sell the principles Mr. Lincoln lived and died for, for thirty pieces of silver, or even a smaller sum. In these days, the same as in the time of Martial, there be those who are willing "to hire out their words and anger" to the highest bidder; and some of this class of persons are now under engagement with Nesmith to degrade and vilify the principles held by the party of which Mr. Lincoln was leader. Two years ago, as one of those paid apostates informs us, it would have been a sufficient argument against Nesmith that he was "Lincoln's political enemy;" but now such an objection is of no force whatever. Which is as much as to say that the man who two years ago opposed the principles of the Union party, ought to have been defeated; but that the same man "just now" should receive the suffrages of the party he does not now wishes to destroy.

Says this same organ: "The people are too calm" now to reject a man who opposed Mr. Lincoln and who now opposes the Union party. "Too calm" to uphold their principles, but just "calm" enough to sell themselves, their opinions and their services to the political enemy, and, to betray their party for a paltry reward! This, certainly, is "calmness." Your betrayer is always "calm." "Calmness" is always characteristic of one who is meditating an act of treachery.

We do not deem it worth while to reproduce from Nesmith's letters and speeches evidences of their author's hostility to Mr. Lincoln's Administration. They have been published repeatedly. Everybody knows how he accused Mr. Lincoln of imbecility, and, by implication, of dishonesty. All remember how vehemently he opposed emancipation. No one has forgotten the letter he wrote to Oregon in 1864, urging the election of McClellan, and using his influence in the hope of carrying the State against Lincoln. But passing over these matters, where do we find him now? With the enemies of the Union party. On no political measure did he vote with the Union majority in the Senate during the late session of Congress. What will be his course hereafter? If re-elected, he will do more against the Union party than Kelly or Smith could do in the like position. He will vote constantly with the Democrats; neither of them could do more.

That extraordinary degree of "calmness" which prepares men for acts of cool, deliberate political villainy, culminating in the abandonment of principle and the betrayal of party, has, as yet, possessed none but crumb-hunters and spoils-men. The great body of the Union party is not so "calm" as those who have forsaken its principles for office and reward.

The Senatorial Election Again.

One of Nesmith's organs has for some time labored to convey the impression that the OREGONIAN is under the direction of a certain candidate for the United States Senate. Nothing has ever appeared in this paper to warrant any such conclusion. While the conductors may have their personal preferences, they have no candidate to press forward, at the risk of defeating all or any other Union candidate, and placing either a McClellan, Vallandighamite, Jeff. Davis or Johnson copperhead. We want it distinctly understood, in advance, that, in behalf of the Union men of the State, we shall hold to their responsibility, any or all men whether members or candidates who may so act as to jeopardize the election of a Union man, whether he be our candidate or the candidate of somebody else. There are enough Union members in the Legislature to elect at once some one of the many candidates who stand fair and square with and for the Union party. The members were elected with the expectation that they would perform that duty faithfully and honestly. If any man, member or candidate, get in the way of the accomplishment of the people's wishes in this respect, he might as well have a millstone hanged about his neck, at once, and be cast into "outer depths," so far as his place in the estimation of all Union men will be concerned, in all future time. The Union sentiment of the State will be satisfied with the election of either of the candidates who are prominently before the people. That is our position in relation to the election of a Senator. We are not wedded to any man, but to the best interests of the Union party, the State and the country at large. The election of a copperhead would be a outrage upon the Union majority in the State, and we have no hesitation in saying before hand that as a Union journal we shall follow our sense of duty by holding up to odium any man who weakens to copperhead wiles on this issue.

At Niagara, Johnson repeated his oft-told tale about "his own sacrifices." The grt test and only sacrifice he ever made that the public knows anything about, was when he sacrificed the good opinion of all loyal men for this of unrepentant rebels.

When Gov. Fenton of New York welcomed Johnson merely as "chief magistrate" of the United States to Albany, Johnson's reply was very coolly brief. He had no stomach for making a speech which he could not fill with "I," "me," "my" and "mine."

Is it not a little remarkable that while Johnson is making a trip to Chicago ostensibly to do honor to the memory of Douglas, thus far he has not said a word about, or made the most distant allusion to, that object of his visit?

Some mariners have sought to secure a safe passage over a rough sea by "pouring oil on the troubled waters." Johnson thinks he can do it with butter.

It never happened before that so many members of Congress were renominated as in the case of the late Congress. Wonder if Johnson can see any "groundswell" in that?

STATE ITEMS.

The Grand Lodge of Good Templars meets to-day, 4th, at Salem.

A man named Lewis Parkhurst was sent to the insane Asylum week before last, from Polk county. He has relatives living in California.

From the domestic market report of the Agriculturist we learn that there is an improvement in the sons of the Salem fruit market—apples selling at $1 00@1 25 per box; pears, 6 cents per pound; plums, 6@8 cents. We notice Lawton blackberries quoted at 25 cents per pound.

The Marysville Appeal says: The Dalles Mountaineer has been selected as the official paper of Oregon, for the publication of the laws and resolutions of Congress, by Secretary Seward. This paper is about the size of a foolscap sheet, and probably has a circulation of about 200. It is the only Johnson Union organ in the State, and its Unionism never hurt it.

The Agriculturist mentions the result of some experiments made in Marion county, this year, in raising flax. Without any more labor than is required to raise a crop of wheat, Mr. Thos. White has raised from two acres, forty bushels of seed for which he gets $60, and has the lint over and above. In the other instances mentioned, the success has been quite as great. Mr. C. M. Cartwright has machinery now on the way, for the manufacture of the seed into oil.

DATES TO SEPTEMBER 3.

Pioneer Steamer of the China Line.

New York, Sept. 1.—The pioneer steamer of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company's line to China, leaves this port on the 1st of October next.

Gen. Howard and the Freedmen's Bureau.

Washington, Sept. 1.—Gen. Davis Tillson has been ordered to return to duty as assistant commissioner of the Freedmen's Bureau of Georgia. This settles, for the present, the question of Gen. Howard's removal from the chief charge of the Freedmen's Bureau.

The "Party" at Niagara.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—The President arrived at Niagara Falls at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and was escorted to the International Hotel, where, from the balcony, he made a long speech, referring to the sacrifices and perils through which he had passed, and the grades by which he had reached his present eminence. Some, he said, had called him a traitor. He asked what principle or particle of the Baltimore platform he had violated. At the conclusion of his speech, Seward was called on and made a few remarks, in the course of which he said that Lincoln had many traducers, and if President Johnson should be suddenly removed, the purity of his purposes would be equally manifested. He defended himself from the charge of having deserted the Baltimore platform. A grand ball was given last night at the International Hotel in honor of the President. The party will remain at the Falls over to-day—Sunday—and will have a public reception at Buffalo on their way west.

Henry Ward Beecher writes a Letter.

New York, September 1.—Henry Ward Beecher writes a long letter, saying he cannot attend the Cleveland Soldiers' Convention, but wishes success to it and all other conventions, of whatever party, whose object is the restoration of the States lately in rebellion to their federal relations. Beecher concludes as follows: It is the men who, on sea and land, saved the nation, should now, by their voice and vote, consummate that which their arms rendered possible. For the sake of the freedmen, for the sake of the South and its millions of fellow-countrymen, for our own sake and for the great cause of freedom and civilization, I urge immediate reunion of all the parts which the war has shattered.

New Jersey Legislature Called Together.

Governor Ward has issued a proclamation convening the New Jersey Legislature on September 17th, to ratify the constitutional amendment and fill the senatorial vacancies.

South American News.

New York, September 1.—The Herald's Valparaiso correspondence says that the declaration of war by Spain had been received, but peace was not expected immediately as it was the intention of the allied republics to make retaliatory war upon Spain and her commerce.

The 28th of July, the anniversary of Peruvian independence, was celebrated in good style, in honor of the newly-arrived ironclads, Huascar and Independencia. Admiral Tucker, the ex-Confederate who had been placed in charge of the Peruvian navy, is still stoutly opposed by Admiral Montes, who has actual command and refuses to comply with any of Tucker's orders.

It is reported that the banks have agreed to loan the Government six million dollars.

The Southern Unionists' Convention.

Philadelphia, Sept. 2.—About six hundred delegates to the Southern Union Convention had registered their names at the Union League rooms last evening, and the indications show that the Convention will be very fully attended. Nearly every State in the Union is represented. The late Governor of Texas is spoken of as temporary President, and James Speed as permanent Chairman. Gov. Brownlow declined the support of the Tennessee delegation for this position. The Convention will be entirely in the hands of the Southern delegates, who will organize and compose its committees, and vote upon the resolutions and platform which the committees may report. The Northern delegates will sit as honorary members. After they are adopted the Northern delegates will probably be formally presented, and many of them will speak. It is believed the platform adopted by the Southern men will be more radical than any that has ever been put forth by a Northern Convention. In addition to the Convention it is proposed to hold several mass meetings in the city every evening of next week. The National Hall in which the Convention will sit has been entirely repaired and refitted for the occasion. It is the largest in the city, and will seat over 4,000 people. All the patriotic associations for which Philadelphia became famous during the war, are making vigorous efforts to appear in full force at the welcoming exercises on Monday morning. The Southern delegations will meet at the rooms of the National Union Club, Chestnut street, at half-past nine o'clock A. M. and proceed from there to Independence Hall. The Northern conference delegations will meet at Independence Hall. At half-past nine o'clock A. M. all the delegates will be escorted from Independence Hall to the Union League House, according to an order issued by Gen. Sykes, Chief Marshal, where they will be received and welcomed by Charles Gibbons, Chairman of the Committee of reception on behalf of the League. After the address of welcome and reply, Southern delegates will be escorted to National Hall, where the work will be resumed, to prevent confusion no persons will be admitted to the Convention on Monday as members thereof, except delegates from the Southern States. The Conference delegates appointed by the Governors of Northern States or otherwise duly authorized to represent them in Convention, will meet at the Lodge House at one o'clock on Monday for temporary organization. The bodies will be united in formal Convention at such time as the Unionists of the South may designate.

Delegates at Philadelphia Union Convention.

Chicago, Sep. 2.—Special dispatches from Philadelphia reports the arrival of a great number of delegates from all parts of the country on Saturday night and Sunday, including Senators Harris, Wilson, Sprague, Yates, Lane, Creswell, Chandler, Foster, Howard, Sumner, Doolittle, Morrill, Dixon, Fairchild, Hanley, Buckalew, Hon. Cornelius Cole, Hon. A. Andrew, Hon. Butler, O. S. Ferry of Connecticut, Jas. Speed, ex-Gov. Pease of Texas, John Minor Botts, Lieut. Gov. Brown, O. A. Brownson, L. P. Chase and others. The chief feature of yesterday was a mass prayer meeting of the delegates. Last evening Senator Harris led the meeting, and in his opening remarks said: They had assembled from various parts of the country to attend a Convention the results of which might affect essentially if not wholly the welfare of this distracted country. It was therefore appropriate that on the evening of the Christian sabbath, they should meet together and commend their country to their God who had signally favored the country in his trials through which it had passed, and plead to God that as the country was now entering on unexpected trials it would not be deserted by him. He closed by announcing that prayer would be offered by the Reverend Dr. Newman of Louisiana. Senator Lane, Lieut. Gov. Bross, Rev. Thos. W. Conway, Gen. Weston, H. Maynard, Judge Potter of Penn., and others followed in exhortation or prayer. Fourteen members of the National Republican Committee had arrived in Philadelphia yesterday and six more are expected to-morrow.

The Ohio State Central Committee had appointed S. B. Brown a member of National Committee vice Geo. H. Senter who goes with Mr Raymond and Senter (?) will take steps for getting $20,000 of election funds now in Raymond's hands.

Washington, Sep. 3.—During the past five years the city has never worn so desolate an appearance as now. Hotels are empty—business including that of speculation is dull for the moment and there is consequently a dearth of news.

London, Sep. 1, evening.—Consols closed at 89¾@5.20's at 74¾. The London Times, in view of the question arising between England and America growing out of the recent war in the United States, and the more recent raids by the Fenians into Canada, urges the British Government to take into early consideration the feasibility if not the necessity of extending the provisions of the neutrality laws as to hold the different Governments to a strict account for all acts in defiance of that law committed by the subjects of each.

Heart's Content, September 2.—The news of the successful picking up of the Atlantic telegraph cable of 1865, reached here at forty-five minutes after six o'clock this morning. The expedition with the Great Eastern had been out twenty-four days, and all hope of success had been abandoned by the telegraph people here. The news reached Valentia at forty minutes past five o'clock, one hour and five minutes after the splice was effected here. Signals are sent through the cable with perfect accuracy, and they are talking with the Great Eastern every moment via Valentia in Ireland. In a few hours after the recovery of the cable, the splice was made with the cable stowed in main tank of the Great Eastern, and the rebuilding out of cable into the sea immediately took place. The big ship is now paying out the wire and approaching Heart's Content on her return and with same speed she manifested in the late expedition. The telegraph fleet is expected here next Saturday.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH

SAN FRANCISCO September 3.—Col G. T Rose an old Californian and a military officer formerly on the staff of Gen Hooker in the army of the Potomac, left for Mexico last week to take service under the Liberal Government of Mexico It is rumored that some sixty able bodied men, left here by another mode of conveyance, about the same time, and that they will meet Col. Knox somewhere on the Mexican coast

The trial of C P Dunne, sol down for hearing in the 12th district court was continued until Thursday next, at the request of the city attorney

The Executive Committee of the United States Central Committee announce that on next Saturday and Sunday Representative Ashley of Nevada will have public addresses Washington, will address the Union citizens of San Francisco to morrow evening upon the state of the nation

The four leading colts at the San Mateo races to day were Lookout, Venture, Argonne and Fastoma. Their success entitles them to the privilege of trotting for the prizes amounting to $8,000 ten years

Thomas Byrnes the cold blooded murderer of Chas T Hill and the perpetrator of numerous and varied other crimes suffered death by hanging, in the county jail, to-day From the moment of his being brought suddenly and unexpectedly face to face with the corpse of his victim down to the morning of the execution, the prisoner preserved the appearance of a most cool ide and heartless indifference, never admitting his crime and never expressing himself in terms of kindness and forgiveness towards the witnesses or jurors in the case In person, Byrnes was tall and muscular, with a well developed figure dark hair and eyes, retreating forehead and slight beard His face indicated a fair share of intelligence, but the expression was hard cal lous and bad—such a face as one instinctively shrinks from and would dread to meet on a dark night all his life was twenty-six to twenty-eight years of age, of Irish parentage and came here from Illinois Byrnes gave up all hope of pardon or reprieve some weeks before the execution, and resigned himself as entirely as if resort to anything further on this subject. In conversation he was less profane and obscene than immediately after his arrest, but did not appear to be in the least downcast or depressed, and laughed and talked with visitors as if entirely oblivious of the terrible fate awaiting him He was visited daily by the Sisters of Mercy and clergymen of Catholic faith with whom he conversed freely, but seemed to his keepers to be little interested in the salvation of his soul What passed between him and his spiritual advisers on the last day is of course unknown, as it should be to the world at large, and if he ever confessed his crimes to them, the public will be none the wiser On Sunday he took leave of his friends, and maintaining his composure to the last In conversation with some members of the press he expressed himself as regretting that he had not followed the teachings of his parents when by he would have avoided the trouble in which he finds himself, but said nothing as to his guilt or innocence of the murder All the morning a crowd of people, instigated by a morbid feeling which it is hard to comprehend or describe, lingered on the outside of the jail and block ed up the street in front of the jail, in spite of the efforts of the police Sheriff Davis was beset by crowds of applicants, insisting upon being granted passes to witness the execution Some of the applicants conducted themselves in a most disgraceful manner, begging for a permit as abjectly as if their very lives depended on their petition being granted Hundreds were turned away grumbling and dissatisfied, because the number which the jail would accommodate was long since made up and there was no room for more By 11 A M the whole west side of the corridor of the jail was filled with specators densely crowded together. Before 12 o'clock even the anteroom and hall below were filled The condemned man, who was in cell No. 9 with his spiritual advisers, was sent for two Sisters of Charity who had been patiently in attendance to him in his confinement, and had them good bye At six minutes past 12 o'clock the Sheriff and his assistants ranged themselves in regular order two by two inside the court room and the gate leading to the stairway by which to ascend The corridor above was thrown open and the condemned then came forth with his arms pinioned and walking between Fathers Gallagher and Gibbons, and a number of other clergymen following The Sheriff and his deputies closed in behind A deputy walked before, and the procession moved through the outer hall, up the stairway and along the eastern gallery towards the gallows. The throng which filled the corridors stood with uncovered heads and breathless silence as deputy Sheriff W. H. Silverthorn advanced to the foot of the gallows, and in a clear voice read the death warrant During the reading of the death warrant, the condemned kept his eyes steadily on the speaker, praying audibly and at the close he drew from his pocket, stepped forward off from the trap and read deliberately and in a voice far less excited than that of Mr Silverthorn in reading the death warrant, as follows "In a position so awful as mine, with death staring me in the face, about to enter a world that knows no end, and to hold a last audience of time, it would ill become me to squander, in useless talk, the few moments that remain to me. I wish merely to thank my friends for the kindly interest they have taken in my behalf, to my good father and mother, sisters and brothers, for the moral and religious training which in child hood they ever endeavored, by word and example, to impress upon my tender mind, and for the fond attachment with which they clung to me in misfortune and in prosperity. On the merits of my case I shall not dwell. The verdict of the Judge has placed it beyond appeal. In the sight of my heart I forgive my enemies I wish to die at peace with men and hope to find mercy with God. In a few moments I shall stand before His throne of judgment to receive a sentence awful because eternal. May it be of eternal blessing." As he shook hands with Sheriff Davis, he said "I will pray for you in Heaven" His limbs were then pinioned and the rope adjusted around his neck The clergyman began in a loud voice to chant a prayer for the intercession of the saints, and at thirteen minutes past one o'clock from the drop fell and the body bringing up with a loud thud just as the feet were touching the pavement of the area below, swung around a few times and hung like a dead weight at the end of the fatal cord The neck was completely dislocated by the fall, and death was by consequence as from a stroke of lightning The request in regard to this last prayer had been complied with, and the crowd immediately began to disperse After having twenty minutes without a movement of any kind, the body was examined and pronounced lifeless It was then taken down and delivered to his friends for burial.

The Monster Ram Dundonberg Nearly Ready for Sea.

[From the New York World, July 30th.]

The great ocean iron-clad Dunderberg is now nearly ready for sea, and will in a short time make her trial trip. Within the past few weeks steam has been raised in her boilers several times, and the massive machinery has been successfully put in motion. There is not the slightest doubt felt as to her success, every precaution having been taken to render her in all respects the most powerful as well as one of the swiftest war vessels afloat. This vessel will throw completely into the shade all the Warriors and La Gloires that have been built by our trans-Atlantic neighbors of England and France, not only in respect of her hull and machinery, but also as regards her armament.

The hull of the Dunderberg was designed by W. H. Webb, of this city, and was constructed at the ship-building establishment of that gentleman. It is 380 feet 4 inches in length; 72 feet 10 inches beam, with a capacity of 5,000 tons (old measurement). The main hold is 22 feet 7½ inches in depth. The hull contains several thousand feet of solid timber of the finest quality, built in layers of square logs, which are bolted together in the most secure manner, there being no opening left between them. The bottom of the vessel is flat; the sides are angular and extremely sharp. The entire massive structure is strongly trussed with diagonal braces fastened inside of the ponderous frame in such a manner that it seems almost impossible that she should be seriously injured by any hostile vessel. The arrangement of the bulkheads of the Dunderberg is such that she may be correctly described as a double vessel, one being built inside of the other. Should the outer one become dammaged or destroyed, the inner one would still retain sufficient buoyancy to float the vessel and keep her out of danger.

The ram of the Dunderberg is her great feature, and has attracted much favorable notice from officers of every nationality who have inspected the vessel. It is a portion of the ship itself, and is not bolted on as in all previous vessels intended for ramming purposes, being simply the bow of the ship, fashioned into a huge beak. To form this ram, the vessel has been made to project five feet from her stem, extending back fifty feet, thus rendering it impossible for any shock to break it off. The ram is incased in a heavy jacket of iron, which will protect it not only from the shot of an enemy, but also from abrasion in contact.

The iron armor applied to the Dunderberg is over one thousand tons in weight. The side armor or is of the best hammered iron, manufactured into slabs of from twelve to fifteen feet in length by three feet in breadth. The plates are three and a half inches in thickness, and are secured to the armor cushion by one and a half inch bolts. The plates are placed vertically, and not horizontally, as is the case with armored vessels of European manufacture.

The deck or flat roof of the Dunderberg is mounted her endwise hull, and it is in fact a tower of strength. It is built of square logs, each one foot in thickness, and rises to the hight of seven feet. It is covered over with a bomb-proof deck, on which it was the original intention to place two turrets, similar to those used in Monitors. The armor covering the casemate is four and a half inches in thickness, and is placed vertically on the sloping sides, being secured by one and a half inch bolts, which pierce the wood-work to a depth of eight inches. None of the fastenings pass through the vessel, and by this means the great danger arising from nuts or bolts flying about the deck when the ship is in action is obviated. The casemate armor consists of slabs twenty-eight inches in width and over eight feet in length, and is of the very best material that could be procured.

The hull of the vessel from below the water line rises up to the gunwall at an angle of about thirty-five degrees, until it joins the casemate, which inclines inward at an angle of forty-five degrees. It is confidently expected that by this means the Dunderberg will be propelled through the water with perfect ease and certainty, and without sustaining the slightest injury.

The propeller and rudder are protected in the most secure manner by an armored shaft, which is a marvel of strength and ingenuity.

The armament will consist of twelve eleven-inch Dahlgrens, [illegible] inch smooth bore Rodman guns, and the largest rifled battery that has ever been placed on board any war vessel. The contract price of the Dunderberg is $1,400,000, the same amount paid for the Monitor, which only carries a battery of two guns.

The Dunderberg is furnished with two horizontal back-acting engines of five thousand horse power, having [illegible] inches in diameter, with forty-two inches stroke of piston. The entire machinery of the Dunderberg is of the most powerful description, and has exhibited the highest efficiency from the European as well as American trials. Not only for the beauty of its workmanship, but for the admirable skill which has been displayed in selecting and combining the various and most intricate appliances for the propulsion of the vessel, the engines and machinery of the Dunderberg were constructed by the firm of John Roach & Sons, at the Iron Iron Works, in this city, from [illegible] furnished by Messrs. W. Smith [illegible].

The contract of the Dunderberg requires that she shall be capable of fifteen of fifteen knots an hour, and that she can easily attain it.

AMERICAN NEWSPAPERS IN ENGLAND.—John Bright, in the course of a recent speech, made the following allusion to politics in England:

"He had been lately to see one of the largest cotton spinners and manufacturers and much-cotton in Lancashire, in which he expressed his regret to find that among his workmen there was growing up a feeling of [illegible] and of common politics than to the politics of their own country. The gentleman mentioned to him, in confirmation of this statement, which he asserted to be literally true, that in his mill there were nearly as many American newspapers to be found as there were of their own country."

THE Memphis Post has heard the following anecdote of [illegible], while, it appears, he was President of the road of which he is chief engineer and superintendent, made a contract with Messrs. Mann & Mann, a Northern firm, to furnish timber to rebuild the bridge across the Big Black. They purchased standing lumber, erected saw mills and [illegible] for the work. Mr. Beauregard [illegible] wished to transport it. Beauregard utterly refused to allow them to move it over his road on any terms, saying "the world's gwy nothing for a Yankee, if he knew it." The result was that those gentlemen were forced to sell out at ruinous rates and abandon their contract.

THE PRESIDENT AND THE SOLDIERS.—The President's love for the soldier is thus illustrated: In Burlington, Iowa, he has given the Post Office to Thomas French, a conservative, over Capt. Holliday, who was wounded and disabled in the army, and had the recommendation of Judge Wilson, the Republican representative of the Burlington District. In Fairfield, Iowa, he has given the Post Office to J. D. Jones, a [illegible] Democrat, in favor of [illegible] Jas. McElvain, the brave and gallant soldier, who was [illegible] in the army.

Ex-[illegible] Hunter, of Virginia, who is now [illegible] the Rebel [illegible] of another Department of the Government. The manner in which he [illegible] to secure that position, I shall not [illegible] now.—A. J.

The editor of [illegible] La Crosse [illegible] explains the way [illegible]:

"God sent a little [illegible] into the brain of a wicked [illegible] and he [illegible] shod, up and down [illegible] the rights of the people and blessed be God.

PNEUMATIC WARFARE.—In a late speech at Hartford, General [illegible] said:

"Let me tell you to love the stars and stripes. Look at the old flag as an object almost of religious reverence. As you go out into life you will find [illegible] you will [illegible] you may even have a chance to fight for it. I tell you, that before you pass from the stage there will be fighting, in comparison with which mine will seem slight."

NEW YORK FINANCES.—New York city pays about forty per cent. of the taxes levied for the support of the New York State Government, and the value of her taxable property is estimated at $622,695,030, whilst that of the remainder of the State is $828,384,045, the total being $1,650,879,685. The amount raised annually by taxation in New York city and county, for municipal purposes, is over $18,000,000 or nearly 3 per cent.

MONTANA.—Acting Governor Meagher has issued a proclamation ordering an election for members of the Territorial Legislature to be held on the 3d of September of the present year. Thirteen members of the Council and twenty-six members of the House of Representatives are to be chosen.

Seward, in correspondence with a lawyer of Nashville, says: that this Government can do really nothing to protect its naturalized citizens from military conscription in the countries of their birth.

THE Johnson meeting held in Meadville, (Pa) on the 27th of July, was a failure, says the Journal, of that town. Resolutions indorsing the President were voted down and the most Radical resolutions were adopted.

Mr. Nasby has Another Pleasant Dream.

CONFEDERATE X ROADS
(Which is in the State of Kentucky)
July 28, 1866.

My dreams uv which I hev had many dourin the past five years, hevent been overly pleasant; indeed they hev taken more the shape uv hideous nitemares than anything else—Lincoln, Grant, Sherman and armies dressed in blue figerin extensively therein. But last nite I had a vision which more than repaid me for all I hev suffered heretofore. I had been at the Corners assistin in inaugeratin a new grocery. The proprietor was a demoralized Ablishuist, who had sold liker surreptitiously in Maine, among them Ablishunists, and consekently had no idea uv the quantity a full grown Kentucky Democrat cood throw bisself outside uv. His entire capital with which he proposed to commence himin was one barrel uv raw corn whisky and some other necessaries, and for a starter to make the acquaintance uv his customers he announced one free nite, and invited the entire community. His invitation was considered generous, and we met it in the same noble sperit—in a more nobler spirit than the confidin and ignorant man desired, in fact, for when we got through, in about 38 minits, there wus'nt a drop uv whisky left, and while the new grocery keeper wus a rollin uv us out he was cussin bisself for a fool. He didn't open agin—he consoomed his stock in trade in givin the blow out to seek customers. His stock, like A. Johnson's Unionism, didn't survive an inwigurashen.

I succumbed in a fence corner, and overpowered as I was, slept—

"A sweetly dreamin
Dreamin the happy hours away."

Methought I was in Philadelphia and the 14th uv August had arrir. There wus a glorious assemblage, ez Doolittle said, uv the brains and hearts uv the country, and I may add, ez I said Humphrey Marshall wus there, uv the bowels likewise. The Convenshun was assemblin. There wus Seward present engineerin uv it. On one side uv him I notist in my dream a shadowy being with wings draped in white and wearin a most unkouth look, with one hand a layin on his shoulder a tryin to take him out uv the hall, while another bein, with wings like a bat, hed him by the nose and wus a twistin uv him just ez he desired. I [illegible] with wings like a bat, hed him by the nose and wus a twistin uv him just ez he desired. I [illegible] which was split, and a tail which he wus flirtin in a [illegible] glee. The bein with the tail and hoofs whispered suthin in Seward's ear, whereupon he moved that that eminent patriot, ex-President Franklin Pierce, be Chairman, upon which the shadowy bein in white unfolded his wings and flew away, castin at Wilkeson the most sorrowful look I ever saw, the hoofed and tailed individual laughin tremendous. The ex-President took the chair, and one Vice-President was appointed from each State, ceptin Vermont and Massachusetts. My bussum swelled with anxshun ez that list was read—it wus more like an old-fashioned Democratic Convenshun than anything I hed heard for five long years. I heard the honored names uv Toombs and Rhett, Pryor and Lee, Slidell and Rosso, and Dandridge and Forrest I heard the names uv Graves and Pollard, Thompson and Forsyth, and I felt like him av old, "mine eyes hev seen thy glory, now let thy servant depart in peace." Nothin but the certainty that I wood at last hev that Post Offis at the Corners, kept me from goin up. Singler 'tis wat slender ties holds us to earth!

The Secretaries was apinted, and then the Committee, two on each from the South and one from the North—which was conciliatin. I was put on the Committee on credentials, Randall, ex Postmaster General being the Northern Representative. We hed our hands full. There was a rush made on us, so many claimed seats that we locked the doors for two hours to decide what should be the proper qualification for a place. Finally we agreed to admit as delegates:

From the North—All Dimocrats who had been arrested by Linkin's minions; all officers who had resined rather than to serve a Ablishun war, and all Republikins who cood show a commission [illegible] and also all who [illegible] was [illegible] to grant [illegible] edition) who were [illegible] to his [illegible] that he was a [illegible] believer in [illegible] Lincoln hed been since January, '61. In some small [illegible] which was [illegible] all he was doin, and all he mite do.

From the South—All who cood show a officer's commishun in the late Confederate army, and who had [illegible] in from Mexico, and all who had lost their niggers in an unholy war, which included all pretty [illegible].

This decided upon, the work was done. The delegates took their seats, and the grate work uv [illegible] the Yoonyun commenced. Jeff Davis wanted to [illegible] a [illegible], and a hall was hired for him in another part uv the city, [illegible] understood a word uv english, hired at a skillin an hour to act as audience. Five kegs uv lager beer, a flood which I have been told Germans [illegible], had been rolled in the hall, and most uv us stayed seven hours and a half.

In the regler Hall there was a commishun which was edyfyin. Doolittle would make a motion [illegible] Wickham would [illegible] Forrest made a speech and Randall indorsed it. Seward and John Morrissey were on the Committee on Resolutions, and Dick Taylor and Cowan were occupyin one seat. The resolutions were brief and to the plat. They resolved that, Whereas, there hed bin a secsh uv unpleasantness in our national history which, owin to circumstances over which nobody had any control, extended over several periods uv many days each; and, Whereas, the unpleasantness resulted from the two sections viewin things from its own stand-pint, instead of viewin things from the other's stand pint; and, Whereas, both parties was highly in the wrong, [illegible] in the North and, Whereas, the South, with a magnanimity unknown in history, hed thrown down her arms, and was ready to [illegible] her old position in the Government, but more, to [illegible] than her old share in the trouble uv runnin the Governm[illegible] therefore be it

Resolved, That we are for the Yoonyun it was.

Resolved, That the [illegible] uv a grateful Congress in continuin the [illegible] which has to some extent disturbed our system uv Government, in legislatin while eleven sovereign States is unrepresented, is pizen.

Resolved, That we view with alarm the manifest determination uv Congress to centralize in themselves the law making power uv the Government, and we pledge our support to our worthy Chief Magistrate, who is a second Jackson, in his [illegible] to check their centralizing [illegible] by vetoin all they may do.

Resolved, That all traces uv the late unpleasantness may be wiped out ez soon ez possible, we demand uv Congress an appropriation for plowin over all the fields on which the citizens uv the two sections was indooced by their [illegible] Governments, so-called, to carry murder, arm together, particularly them on which our Southern brethren got the worst uv the disputes that ensood.

Resolved, That Congress shood, ez soon ez it convenite, change the names uv Murfreesboro, Gettysburg, Antietam, Vicksburg, et cetry, to such names ez Smithboro, Brownsburg, Jonesburg, et cetry, that the serious unpleasantness which occurred at them places may be remembered no more forever.

Resolved, That the citizens uv the Southern States wich lost their lives and limbs in the late unpleasantness wich has him referred to, ought to be placed on the pension rolls same ez the Northern citizens who suffered likewise and that the debt incurred by the south in upholdin things ez viewed from its stand pint is entitled to be paid the same ez the debt incurred by the North in upholdin things ez viewed from its stand pint.

Resolved, That we are willin for the sake uv harmony to admit that Sherman and Grant were, all things considered, worthy uv bein ranked with Lee and Jackson.

Resolved, That the safety uv the Government demands that sich ez took part in the unpleasantness from the Southern States be twounst admitted to Congress, and to the other perishers wich they yoost to crossmount, and that the more unpleasant they was doorin the trouble the more they ought to be admitted.

Resolved, That there [illegible] be gushin confidences, we freely forgive the honored Secretary uv State for the too free use uv his little bell doorin the unpleasantness, believin that he viewed things from his own stand-pint instead uv somebody else's, wich allus causes trouble.

At this plist His Eggsolency, Andrew Johnson, supported by Secretary Wells on one side and Vice President Stephens on the other, with Buckalew in front and Toombs behind, entered the hall. Such a cheering I never heard. Hats were slung in the air and seats wus torn up. Proudly they advanced up the aisle, trading as they went onto a portrait uv Linkin with a enthusiastic Connecticut delegate tore from the wall and throwed before em. They took their position on the stage, General Buell holdin over em a Fedral flag and General Henry A. Wise, uv Virginny, a Confedrit flag, both wavin them to the music uv two bands, one a playin Dixie and the other Yankee Doodle.

At this pint methought the sperit uv Washinton floated into the hall and for a minit contemplated the countenance uv President Johnson. In my dream I heerd him murmur, "Thore and me and Adams and Jefferson and Monroe and Jackson, and then cum Fillmore and Pearce and Buchanan and, good Lord! Johnson! I laugh it, and I notist that George spit as tho' suthin in his mouth didn't taste well. In fact the Father uv his country looked sick, and spreadin his wings the sperit moved out uv the hall, shakin the sperit dust uv his sperit boots ez he shot thro' the sky-lite.

There wus then a blank in my dream. When I regained I wus at the Post-office Department the next mornin. The gullotine had commenced work and the supporters of the Constitushun were receivin their nominations as Postmasters at the rate ez four hundred clerks cood make em out. Ez I pressed forward Randall bisself give me mine. "Take it, my venerable friend," sez he, with tears a gushin down his cheeks; "take it. No more shall that Democrat in your township who takes a paper receive it contaminated by the touch of a Abolishun radical."

At this critical pint I awoke. Wood that that dreem wus a reality. Will I only git that Post-office in a dreem?

PETROLEUM V. NASBY,
Late Pastor uv the Church uv the Noo Dispensashun.

WHAT HE COST.—The great "Democratic organ" of this State reproduces from the New York Day Book, which is perhaps the most infamous paper now published in the United States, a paragraph abusing "Abraham Lincoln, the Illinois railsplitter," on the ground of the extravagance of his funeral expenses! "He has cost the Government," says the Day Book, "nearly as much as all the preceding occupants of the Presidential chair put together." Here are a few of the "items" as furnished by this humane and high-toned American journal:

Rewards for arrests of [illegible]	$220,000
Expenses incidental to burial	500,000
Other expenses incident to the [illegible] nation	35,000

Now we will defy Belzebub himself, aided by all the cunning of all the devils in hell, and the suggestions of all the secessionists and rebels who have not yet arrived at their final destination, to devise anything more diabolically and infernally impudent and horrible than the idea of assassinating a man, and then [illegible] him on the score of the expense of burying him.—Dramatic Chronicle.

COLLECTOR ADAMS IN TROUBLE.—The rumor that Collector Adams, of Astoria, is in trouble with the Treasury Department is true. The details in the case are withheld by the Treasury Department, and neither of the Oregon Senators seem to have any clear idea of the facts of the case, or take much interest in them. But Special Agent Getchell has made a report to the Secretary, presenting evidence to prove that the Collector has been speculating in greenbacks with funds of the Government. I cannot learn that any special defalcation is charged, and am inclined to think that the sum involved is not large in amount. The Department, however, has required Mr. Adams to settle certain amounts in gold, which he expected to liquidate in greenbacks. The high character for integrity which Mr. Adams has borne heretofore, entitles him to a continuance of public confidence until proofs of delinquency are presented.—Bulletin's Washington Letter.

ANTICIPATED OFFICIAL CHANGES.—The Flag says "there is talk that the editor of the Examiner is expecting to be appointed Collector at San Francisco, in place of General Miller to be removed." As the editor of the Examiner defended the right of secession, eulogized the rebel leaders and denounced all those most earnest in the prosecution of the war to save the Union, while General Miller fought and got badly wounded in defence of the flag, there appears to be good ground for the rumor.
